ROAD MAN DIES AT KANE

Bradford Road Opening Delayed By Rains and Lack of Stone.—Will Likely Be Ready After First.

Nearly a mile of the new road between this place and Kasson has been completed by Frank L. Cohen, Inc., or about one-sixth of the total length of the job.

During the past few days good progress has been made, about 500 feet being laid each day

Carl Gustafson, of Griffiths, who was employed on this work and was badly injured last week while unloading sacks of cement died after being removed from here by automobile.

Gustafson was injured internally and had both legs fractured. He asked to be taken to Kane Summit Hospital, and when he arrived there his condition was precarious.

The rains of last week and difficulty experienced in obtaining stone will probably cause some delay in the opening of the Bradford road, the work upon which is being done by Warren, Moore & Company.

September 1 was the date of the expected opening of the highway which will bring Smethport and Bradord into closer connection.

However, now sufficient stone is being received and good progress is reported.

E. E. BOUTON ABLE TO BE ABOUT THE STREETS AGAIN

The many friends of E. E. Bouton will be pleased to learn that he is able to be about again with the aid of crutches. Mr. Bouton has even been able to attend some of the parties recently given. His speedy recovery seems almost marvelous in view of the fact that four weeks after his operation, February 25th, he was obliged to lie almost in the same position, being confined by a plaster cast, which was changed in June to a shorter one, which allowed him to sit up.

Dr Plummer, the noted surgeon of Buffalo, performed the operation, namely, that of removing a tubercular piece of the spinal column and substituting a piece from the shin bone. In Mr. Bouton's case, as in many others, Dr. Plummer met his usual success.

CROSBY METHODIST EPISCOPAL TO HOLD CHURCH FAIR.

A fair for the benefit of the Crosby Methodist Episcopal Church will be conducted on Main street of that place on the afternoon and evening of August 17.

The purposes of the fair is to aid the new church building fund.

Booths with fancy goods, novelties, candies, etc., will be opened at 2 p. m. The Ladies' Aid will serve supper on the lawn after 5:30, and Crosby Band will provide music. In case of inclement weather, the fete will be held in the parish house.

LOCALS WILL PLAY THE K. OF C. AT ST. MARY'S.

Because the game with the Bradford Odd Fellows' team was called off by that aggregation, the Smethport ball club will journey to St. Mary's this Sunday and play the K. of C. team of that place.

The locals are playing great ball now, and if they perform in the same manner as they did at Port Allegany last week, they should win handily at St. Mary's.

CHURCHES NEAR HERE IN GOOD FINANCIAL STANDING.

The last quarterly conference this year of the Farmers Valley circuit, consisting also of the Coryville and East Smethport churches, took place Tuesday evening at Farmers Valley.

Rev. A. L. Pang, pastor, states that the churches are ahead of their financial schedules, which he considers excellent in view of present conditions.

Rev. N. J. McIntyre, of Bradford, gave a sermon, "Working With Christ," and presided.

TAXI PURSUES RUNAWAY ON MAIN STREET.

A runaway horse, which got beynod control of its driver at the Corner Drug Store, and galloped fiercely out Main street until the buggy to which it was hitched struck a curbing at the Clarauett Creamery Farm, furnished some excitement yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock.

Seeing the horse increasing its speed despite the efforts of the driver, F. J. Nichols quickly procured taxi full of young men and went in pursuit, attempting to stop the animal.

A small child in the buggy with the driver was in danger of serious injury, but the horse ran without swerving. After striking the curbing, it slackened its speed, and was finally stopped.

CHEESE PLANT CLOSES DOWN

Forcer to close because of lack of milk, after operating but a short time, the new local cheese factory management announces that business will be resumed next spring.

The reason given for the closing is because farmers were hampered by the present condition of the roads nearby, undergoing repairs, from bringing their milk to town. Consequently there was a scarcity of milk, which is one of the most essential of raw materials that goes to make the excellent brand of cheese produced here

Business on the same basis will be resumed by the plant when it again opens.

With two of the main thoroughfares leading to Smethport torn up to make way for new modern surfaces it can easily be seen that in the spring transportation will be made much quicker and easier for the farmers.

YOUNG GIRL LOST IN WOOD

Falls While Berrying, Becomes Bewildered and Starts in Wrong Direction.

Mary Catherine Dunkell, a young woman who resides at the home of Mr. James Cunningham on Main street, had a tramp of two miles through the thickets of Prospect Hill last Friday morning before she came upon other Smethport persons berrying.

Going into the woods off the Skinner Creek road on the other side of the hill, she picked berries, until she stumbled over a rock and fell She arose but in the moment she lost her bearings. She started to walk in the opposite direction of the road where Mr. Cunningham was awaiting her.

It was not until two hours of walking through the heavy undergrowth that she came upon a party of local persons, including Mrs Charles Provin and friends, who brought the fatigued young woman back to town.

REV. FATHER CARPENTER DIES AT OSCEOLA.

The funeral of Rev. Father James Carpenter, of Osceola, N. Y., and who is well known here, took place Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock at that place.

Bishop Gannon, of Erie, a classmate of Father Carpenter at Allegheny College, celebrated the requiem mass.

Father J B. Donohue, of St. Elizabeth's Church here, was at the college at the same time as Father Carpenter and was a very close friend. Last Sunday the local priest was much affected upon making the announcement of Father Carpenter's death.

Father Donohue accompanied the body from Osceola to Hazelton, Pa., where burial was made.

Why are the sun, moon and stars like Fuller Brushes? Because they are always on the job.

GOES MAD AFTER DRINKING EAST SMETHPORT BOOZE

SELLER OF THE WHISKEY, JIM NACKO, OF EAST SMETHPORT, HELD UNDER $1,000 BAIL FOR COURT BY JUSTICE R. C. GLEASON.—FOUR DOLLARS A QUART PAID.

Arrested at his home in East Smethport by Detective Allison, who searched the premises for intoxicating liquors, Jim Nacko was charged with selling the whisky which caused John Dudick, of near Bradford, to go crazy last Sunday night in Custer City, terrorize the community with a revolver and a shotgun and severely bite a policeman.

Nacko is said to have admitted selling liquor to Dudick and another man by the name of John Ross, also of Bradford, and was held for court under $1,000 bail by Justice R. C. Gleason of this place at a hearing this morning.

According to the testimony, Ross and Dudick went to Nacko's East Smethport home on Sunday night. Dudick went in and asked to buy some liquor. He was refused. Ross then entered, and is alleged to have been given a quart of some sort of colored liquor which resembled and tasted like whisky, for which they paid about $4.

The party then motored back to Bradford and to Custer City, drinking the liquor. Dudick became sick at first it is said, and then later became affected with a sort of insanity.

He began quarreling with his wife, and when Ross interfered is reported to have fired at Ross' house with a shotgun, Ross having gone into hiding.

Dudick then entered Ross' house with a revolver. Ross fled and Dudick pursued him down the street brandishing the pistol. Failing to catch Ross, Dudick went into his own home again and began firing at the Ross abode.

The Bradford police were called to the scene of the shooting, as the community was aroused in fear that someone might get killed.

Patrolmen Blake and Fairbanks arrived with the patrol wagon.

Dudick Barricaded himself in a room of his house and held the officers at bay for a short time. Finally they crept to the door and battered it down. After a terrific struggle with Dudick, the police subdued him and brought him to the lockup.

Fairbanks was severely bitten on the hand during the fight with the prisoner.

Nacko is employed here as a section hand by the Pennsylvania railroad. At the hearing he did not seem to think he had committed a crime by furnishing the liquor, and admitted that he had sold it. He is well known in East Smethport.

The fact that no intoxicants were found in his house, the authorities say, indicates that he was tipped off to get rid of any such liquors which might be taken as evidence against him.

The arrest comes in line with the district attorney's program of conviction of all liquor violators in the county, many of whom evidence has been procured against, but the arrests have not been made as yet.

COUNTERFEITER CAPTURED NEAR HERE LAST WEEK

Local officers here know nothing of the arrest, and believe it occurred probably somewhere near Smethport.

Warren, August 6.—Federal officers captured a man named Earl Greer in Smethport Thursday and took him to Warren, where he was formerly employed in a restaurant, on a charge of defrauding by raising a one dollar federal note to a ten dollar denomination.

The complaint as made sets forth that on June 14 he passed on Mrs. F. Danna, a restaurant proprietor at Johnsonburg, a federal bank note on which the denomination had been raised.

At a hearing before U. S Commissioner Shawkey he was held under $8,000 bail.

A secret operative named James J. Tierney made the information that Geer altered the note by attaching and placing thereon after the figure "1" wherever it appeared on the face and back of said note, the figure or character "0" so that the federal reserve bank note then and there purported to be of the denomination and vaue of ten dollars.

CHILD WHICH FORMERLY LIVED HERE BADLY HURT.

Russell Balz, 10 years old, son of Byon Balz, now deceased, a former resident of Smethport, was struck by an auto in Buffalo this week, and may die.

The father of the boy died during the influenza epidemic.

Playing in the street near his home on Rhode Island avenue with another boy and a tricycle, the youngster was hit by a touring car. Young Balz's playmate was but slightly injured, while he suffered a fractured collar bone and skull.

He is in Columbus Hospital.

Has the Fuller Brush man called at your home yet? You'll be glad when he calls

BRAINARD-BROWNELL.

Thursday evening, August 4, at 7 o'clock p. m., at Mansfield, Pa., at the home of the bride, occurred the marriage of Robert Brownell, son of Fred Brownell, of Smethport, to Elizabeth Brainard, daughter of Mrs. Brainard, of Mansfield.

Rev. Purdy, of the M. E. Church at Mansfield, performed the ceremony, the ring service being used. Immediately following the ceremony, refreshments were served, and the happy couple left by auto for Troy, Pa., and there took the train for Baltimore, where they intend to spend their honeymoon.

Miss Brainard is a graduate of Mansfield Normal School. She taught last year in the Galeton High School. She has a wide circle of friends.

Mr. Brownell is a popular young man of this place. He is a graduate of Smethport High School and has also taken a course at Allegheny College. At present he is inspector in the State Highway Department.

Mr. and Mrs. Brownell will reside in Galeton, Pa.

The Miner extends its congratulations.

SAEGER JAR AT BETULA

One hundred and fifty to two hundred gross of Saeger Vacuum Jars will be turned out from the Betula glass factory, which will begin operations about the middle of December.

The new jar will be manufactured for the first time in the building of Pennsylvania Stave Company's old plant, which is now already being converted to the present owner's use. The estimated value to the Saeger Jar Company amounts to between $250,000 and $300,000.

Owing to a misleading report circulated in several newspapers, which stated that the jar had been manufactured in New York state, the president of the new glass company, S. S. Saeger, of Buffalo, denied this, and stated emphatically that when the new jar was manufactured at Betula and placed on the market, it would be the first time that it had been brought before the public.

The company's sales organization and main office will be located in Buffalo, but the entire plant will be located in Betula, so that the town will be a model glass center.

A force of more than 200 will be employed, and these with their families will bring a great boom to Betula and this section.

The vacuum jar is claimed by members of the company to be a vast improvement over the old-style glass receptacle, and is for packing all products that may be preserved. It will likely be demonstrated here within a short time.

The officials of the new concern are: S. S. Saeger, of Buffalo; George Laws, Buffalo; L. Richardson, Betula; J. W. Saeger, Buffalo, and J. L. Strickler, Buffalo.

FIREMEN TO GO TO KANE

Entire Local Organization Expected To Be on Hand at the County Convention.

At a largely attended meeting of the fire department held last Thursday evening it was unanimously decided that the Smethport fire department should attend the Elk-McKean Fireman's Convention at Kane, August 24th, and a committee consisting of Fred Milroy, Guy McCoy, Howard Denning, P. S. Curran and Albert Johnson was appointed to make all necessary arrangements. The committee immediately organized and elected Milroy chairman, and are proceeding with the necessary work of insuring that the entire membership of the department, some 200, can go to Kane; that the exempt and active organization shall be represented in the parade and that the department be properly represented in the hose, hub-and-hub and relay races The Smethport Band will accompany the firemen

The matter of training for the races is in the hands of P. S. Crossman, and great interest is already manifested. It is predicted that Smethport will again bring home the bacon from the Kane convention, and that a goodly share of the prizes from the races will be jingling in their pockets, the same as in many years past. To insure the success of this outing it will require the raising of about $200 to be used largely for hiring the band. The treasurer of the fire department, Guy McCoy, and Hal Hockenberry, chief of the department, will call on the property owners of the borough in the next few days, and it is hoped that the people will contribute liberally to this subscription list.

Smethport firemen are going to this convention right, as they always do, and it is felt that the people of the town will gladly back them up financially in this mater

An adjourned meeting of the fire department will be held this, Thursday, evening to take up important matters in connection with this outing and every member should be in his place at this meeting

Burdick today. The man's body was ery severely torn by the wedge and internal hemorrhages caused death.

Mr. Catania was splitting chemical wood near Betula, Pa., when the sliver flew from the wedge. He was brought to the Olean General Hospital, where death occurred last night.

"COP" FIGHTS WITH WIFE ON BRADFORD'S STREETS.

Bradford, August 9.—Patrolman William B. Benedict, of the Bradford police force, is patrolman no longer, having been suspended by Chief Solt from further duty, awaiting his resignation, or a hearing, owing to actions on the street unbecoming to a police officer.

Not only has Mr. Benedict been suspended from work, but his wife has had a warrant issued for his arrest, the warrant charging him with assault and battery. The warrant has not yet been served, although it is in the hands of a constable, as Benedict has not been seen since yesterday and Mrs. Benedict tells the police that she believes her spouse has left town.

Yesterday Benedict visited a local bank and his wife located him and a good, old-fashioned family row started on the spot and lasted until the couple reached the police station. The couple pummeled each other and at the police station he fight waxed warm. Mrs. Benedict is said to have broken her umbrella over her husband, while he is said to have struck her.

The fight caused quite a scene on the street, naturally. At the police station a patrolman was on duty and he telephoned an S. O. S. for his superior officer to report for duty earlier on account of the fistic encounter taking place beside him.

What was the place full of where the babe Moses was hidden, and what saved him. Fuller B-rushes.

WOMAN NOMINATED FOR BRADFORD SCHOOL DIRECTOR.

Bradford, August 6.—The League of Women Citizens last evening indorsed Mrs. F. V. Maltby as a candidate for the board of public school directors at the election next November. A determined effort will be made in behalf of Mrs. Maltby's candidacy.

The league deferred action on the matter of endorsing other candidates. No final decision has been made as to the possibility of naming a woman candidate for the City Council.

The principal business of last evening's session was the endorsement of Mrs. Maltby, together with an informal discussion of the impending election and the proper policy for local women voters to pursue therein. The remainder of the meeting was of a social nature.

BADLY HURT BY LOG IN HICK'S LUMBER CAMP.

Kane, August 5.—L. Mavey, of St. Marys, employed in H. L. Hick's lumber camp, in the big woods on the Old Water Mill, about five miles northeast of his city, was fatally injured yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when he was crushed under a large log. The man was engaged in assisting other workers to unload logs from a car to the edge of a log pond when he missed his footing after a log was started from the top that turned sideways and caught him before he could get out of the way. The log passed over his body, breaking his back and fracturing his right arm in two places.

NEGROS IN DEADLY PISTOL BATTLE AT KANE.

Kane, Pa., August 5.—A dispute over articles stolen from a trunk resulted in a shooting affray at James City last night, about 6 o'clock, that caused the death of William Harris, a colored man, and the wounding of Henry Clemmons, also colored.

Both men lived at James City. Clemmons alone in a shack and is alleged that he was about to leave that place and had packed his trunk with that end in view. Later he found that the trunk had been broken open and some of his clothing and other articles taken and circumstances pointed to Harris as the perpetrator of the act.

Clemmons accused Harris of opening the trunk and invied him and three other colored men to go to his shack and see what had had been done.

Upon arrival at the shack the dispute between Clemmons and Harris became heated and Harris drew a revolver from his pocket and opened fire upon Clemmons. Three bullets struck the latter, one lodging in his right hand and two in his arm.

GOOD BALL GAME AT PORT ALLEGANY, ON FRIDAY

Port Allegany, August 8.—The Shepards, of Montour Falls, one of the best industrial teams in New York state, will play the local Church League team on Friday, August 12th, at the Church League grounds. This will be the strongest team to play here this year, having in their line-up Jack Monroe, formerly of the New York Nationals, George Bell, former star Coudersport pitcher and later of the Brooklyn Nationals; also our own Harry Calhoun, who is playing a star game at center field. George Bell, who will pitch for the Shepards, has many friends here, having pitched for Coudersport in the old McKean-Potter League in 1903. The admission price to this game will be 50 cents.

CARUSO BURIED AMID ELABORATE CHURCH SERVICES.

Naples, August 4.—The most impressive funeral services Naples has known in modern times occurred today when the late Enrico Caruso was buried amidst the lamentations of the grief-stricken population.

A tremendous crowd attended the last rites, including prominent persons who had come from various parts of Italy and even from Paris. That the singer was really the idol of the Neapolitan populace was made plain by the evidences of grief on every hand.

King Victor Emmanuel had suggested funeral services n the basilica of the Cathedral of San Francesco de Paola and it was in that historic edifice that the funeral services were conducted according to the liturgy of the Roman Catholic church.

The Italian government and the municipality were represented.

THE IRISH QUESTION.

In the mind of every American is the sincere desire for a permanent settlement of the dispute between Ireland and England.

Rumors to the effect that the Erin Isle will become virtually a republic, with freedom greater than even that of Canada were sent broadcast via flaring headlines. These reports have now taken on a more conservative tone. At first the heart of each Irish descendant throbbed with joy upon feeling that the long line of martyrs who had died for many score of years for Ireland's freedom should be justified as noble men, instead of the stigma they have suffered by expiring in prison.

Whatever the outcome of the parley between the powers of the two islands, we sincerely trust that it will be a satisfactory one.

One noticeable fact since the beginning of the rumors of a republic is the inactivity of the Sinn Fein army, showing conclusively that that body is under absolute discipline, and fights only when ordered to do so.

Therefore, we await with breathless suspense to hear the real facts of the parley, and trembling for fear of a fresh outbreak of bloodshed if both sides are not willing to concede something to gain peace.

OBREGON PROVES ABILITY.

President Obregon is proving himself a capable and forceful executive in his handling of the affairs of Mexico. He is demanding economy of the strictest sort in the administration of the government. It is particularly appropriate in a country heavily in debt and behind with its engagements. Years of revoutions and all attendant woes have brought Mexico into straits. If she is ever again to prosper she must pay up and pay out; and to do that she must work and save and cut the corners.

The president of Mexico is demonstrating that his grasp of affairs is that of a statesman as well as a soldier. He has an eye for conducting as well as safeguarding a government. He is moving promptly on outbreaks here and there against the government. No sooner does some "general" or "colonel," or bandit minus a military title take to the "brush" and announce a revolution than President Obregon sends a force against him, and, seizing him in the bud, so to say, crushes him. Such men are not allowed time to recruit a formidable following.—Olean Times.

ANSWER TO MR. HIBBARD'S LETTER TO MR. KANE.

As announced in the Miner last week on this page, the answer to Mr. Hubbard's communication to Mr. Elisha Kane is made by the latter.

The answer follows;

Kushequa, July 22, 1921.

Charles C. Hubbard, Esq.,
Trutee Anti-saloon League,
Kane, Pa.

Dear Sir:—Your letter of June 27th was duly read by me to the Prohibition county convention at Bradford June 29th. Clearly you misrepresented the facts applicable to the case.

Your letter came in response to the request which I sent through the press and by personal appeal to frinds of prohibition, regardless of party, to attend the Prohibition county convention and advise us as to the wisdom of continuing our organization and nominating this year a candidate for jury commissioner. I particularly referred to the fact that one candidate for jury commissioner must come from the majority (Republican) party and the other from one of the minority parties. And I mentioned that the two principal interests of the Prohibition party now are: Prohibition enforcement and legal rights for labor. Your letter avoids mention of any of these points. And, although this fall's campaign has nothing whatever to do with national or even state matters excepting one supreme court judge, you confine yourself to a discussion of the national vote and of action at the primary on legislative offices.

As your letter has no bearing on these present matters, and as our state executive committee had undertaken the nomination of Charles Palmer for supreme court judge and had already instructed our national committeemen to vote for continuance of the National Prohibition party, it is natural that our county convention should disregard your advice, should choose its county officers and executive committee, and decide to put its candidates in the field. For jury commissioner, Eva. (Mrs. S. N.) Sullivan was recommended, and for clerk of the courts, Della H. (Mrs. P. M.) Spanogle will be her colleague.

Insofar as Pennsylvania is concerned, and particularly as affecting the state office now to be filled, permit these figures to show how grievous is your mistake in supposing any decline of the Prohibition party vote. For Congress-at-large the average increase from 1918 to 1920, including accession of the women vote, was, for all parties 65 per cent, but for the Prohibition party 236 per cent. For U. S. Senator the Prohibition vote rose from 30,000 in 1916 to 132,000 thousand in 1920, an increase of 340 per cent, and from 1914 to 1920 it increased 641 per cent.

Prohibition is in the United States constitution and federal laws to enforce it have been passed; but Pennsylvania has since been afflicted with the Woner license law enacted by an overwhelming Republican legislature at the behest of a Republican Governor. Surely Prohibition successors to these are needed. Two years hence we shall bring that message to the people.

This year we want juries such as Mrs. Sullivan will select.

Our twin issue, legal rights for labor, even by itself, justifies the maintenance of the party. The strike and the lockout prevails. Oppression by the trades union alterates with capitalistic oppression, excepting when they reconcile their differences at the expense of all other laborers and of the rest of the public.

You suggest enrollment of Prohibitionists in the Republican party to help its large but inert dry element at the primaries against the dominent element, but you give no reason to suppose that our people might not go into the Democratic party instead. Nor do you suggest what should be done when neither Republican nor Democratic party makes any effort at the primary. For intsance this year Thomas S. Crego, a thoroughly wet Republican, holds your party's nomination for Congress-at-large without any effort on the part of your drys to put forward an opponent. Samuel P. Bracken, Democratic nominee is a selection of the wet element of his party. Our nominee, Dr. B. E. P. Prugh, is the only dry candidate in the field. Senator Penrose, the most powerful of all wet champions, was unopposed for your party's nomination last year; and, six years before, his majority at the primary over the dry Republican was twenty-three times as great as the entire Prohibition primary vote; how could our vote if cast at your primary have helped?

As for Congressman Jones, State Senator Baldwin and Assemblymen Catlin and Fitzgibbon you correctly state that they were counted as drys but you suppress the fact that they were elected on the Prohibition party ticket as well as on the Republican. Our party has ceased to be a mere party of protest We express approval as well as censure; and, time and again, our votes thrown in a compact, organized mass have caused the election of some dry warrior who otherwise would have gone down to defeat through desertions from the ranks of his own party.

This fall our party will put in the field an eminent attorney of the highest character for judge of the supreme court, Charles Palmer, of Delaware county. If the dry element of your party shall make him the party's nominee, the combined vote will assure his election. If you fail, you will, nevertheless, find him on the ballot election day; and you can turn in and elect him. I hope that the intensity of partisanship will not, in such case, cause you to vote for the wet candidate instead.

If the dry Republicans nominate at the primary a jury commissioner of their way of thinking, they will elect him; and our candidate, Mrs. Sullivan, will be his efficient colaborer for enforcement jurors If the wet Republicans control your party's nomination, the county will, nevertheless, have one dry commissioner. She will be able to place before the judge such irreprochable names for jurors that he will naturally sustain her choice.

This, then, is our fall campaign: For supreme court judge, Charles Palmer; for clerk of the courts, Della H. Sparogle; for jury commissioner, Eva Sullivan, and for issues, law enforcement and legal rights for labor.

Yours truly,
(Sgd.) Elisha K. Kane,
Chairman Prohibition Party.

REAL TREAT FOR IMMIGRANTS.

Ice Cream Something New to Arrivals at Ellis Island, but They Finally Liked It.

Immigrant struggles with American food on Ellis Island reached a climax when Commissioner Wallis introduced plates of ice cream to the 1,700 diners. The idea behind the ice cream was to give the immigrants a real treat on their reaching the land of promise.

What happened was a marvel to witness. The first persons served were a Balkin native and a native of East India. The East Indian took a lick and liked it. He looked around and saw that the Balkan opposite him had a bigger piece. Greedily he grabbed for it. Then the fight began. Both got well smeared in the face with the food.

The other diners touched the ice cream, and finding it cold, thought they knew the trick. The stunt was to smear the cold substance on your neighbor's face. This happened several times. Then someone tasted the ice cream and with a whoop announced it was manna too precious to be wasted on countenances. The head steward said the same thing in the eight languages he speaks. The face-smearing ceased abruptly.

But the final experiment was yet to be made. The real genius of the meal took up his knife and a piece of bread and spread the new butter tenderly over it. He started the fashion with a bang, and all the rest enjoyed their ice cream that way.—New York World.

Average Life of Auto.

As highway transportation develops and passenger cars and trucks become practically the sole means of road travel, the proportion of first purchasers of cars and trucks in the total of car sales will decrease, and the demand for new cars each year will become more and more nearly equal to the number of cars which drop out of service. For this reason it is becoming increasingly important for the trade to know how many cars will be required for replacement of those withdrawn from service. Analysis of registration, production, export and import figures over a period of years leads to the conclusion that the average life of the 2,000,000 cars retired from service in the last seven years was about 5.5 years.—Scientific American.

New Tombstone.

Austin J. Harnan of Custer, Okla., has invented what he calls a "new and improved tombstone," says the Columbus Dispatch. It is designed to represent a life-size human figure standing erect. For instance, it might be a soldier. The material is galvanized iron, made hollow, so that the lower part of it may be filled with cement to make a heavier base. The body is hollow in order that if desired, it may hold an urn containing the ashes of the deceased. As for the head, it is meant to be screwed on and may be made a likeness of the person for whom the tombstone is

RECORDS HUMIDITY IN AIR

Both Temperature and "Livability" Shown by Twin Thermometer Likely to Become Popular.

Sensations of heat or cold, as experienced by a normally healthy person, are caused almost entirely by the condition of the surrounding atmosphere. If it is still, damp, and about 75 degrees or more in temperature, a feeling of disagreeable heat and oppression results; while if of the same temperature, but dry and in moderate motion, no discomfort is felt. The reasons for this are that dry, moving air takes away bodily heat about as rapidly as it is generated, while damp, still air does not, explains a writer in Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Therefore in designing an instrument to determine whether atmospheric conditions are conducive to bodily comfort, other factors than temperature must be taken into account. For this reason the ordinary dry-bulb thermometer is unreliable and has been supplemented by another instrument of the so-called wet-bulb type, in which the bulb is inclosed in a fabric mesh bag which keeps it damp. To use, both bulbs are immersed in hot water until they register 110 degrees. They are then removed, and the time required for each to drop to atmospheric temperature noted. The wet bulb will always cool more rapidly than the dry one. This difference in cooling rates serves to index the degree of comfort one should be experiencing, as it roughly indicates the moisture in the air and whether or not air is in motion.

THE U. S. USCO TREAD

Here is the U. S. Usco Tread, with a long-established standard of service among motorists who have an eye to value, as well as to price. While selling for less than the other tires in the U. S. Fabric line, the Usco has earned a reputation for quality and dependable economy which is not exceeded by any tire in its class.

The standard tire likes nothing better than to prove its service

PEOPLE used to be secretly envious of the young fellow who came tearing up the street and stopped his car with a jerk.

Now they are inclined to criticise such abuse of tires. A mark of the growing consciousness about tires—their service, their work, their value.

This same respect for a good tire is the reason why the four-square tire dealer has passed up odds and ends, "job lots", "seconds", "cut prices"—and come out squarely with the standard quality service of U. S. Tires.

He is getting a bigger, and also better, tire business than he ever had before.

He is dealing now with his own kind of people. The substantial citizen. The man who knows that you can't get something for nothing. The steady customer—not the bargain hunter.

• • •

To the man who has not yet learned the standard tire service he is entitled to we say—

Go to the dealer in U. S. Tires and make him show you.

The U.S. Tire you buy is a tire built for current demands. No overproduction. No piling up of stock. No loss of mileage by hanging around on the dealer's racks.

Every way you look at it, a par quality tire at a net price.

The Casualty List

By MURIEL BLAIR

(©, 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

It was a slack evening in the office, I remember, and a group of us were sitting chatting around the reporters' table farthest from Dunning, the night editor, who had looked around rather frowningly once or twice, as if the conversation disturbed him.

Broad's fiancee was to arrive that evening on the 10:10 from Washinton, and Broad, who had been celebrating in honor of the event, was telling us all the details of their recent quarrel and reconciliation. She had gone down to the capital to visit a sister, and they had parted without saying good-by, for some cause flimsy enough, but very serious in the minds of two lovers. Then she had written forgiving him, and so—that evening they would be united again. That was all, but Broad was telling it with a whole wealth of detail.

"Dunning is a Washington man, too," said Broad, flourishing his hands expressively. "But he doesn't care."

"Sh-h!" said someone; and just then a boy entered with a late edition of the "Planet," wet from the press, and handed it to Dunning. We saw him glance at it, then suddenly rivet his attention on the staring black letters that covered one-third of the front page. He looked round and his eye searched our ranks.

"Mr. Broad!" he said sharply, and then, changing his mind, left his seat and hurried toward us. "Mr. Broad, I want you to go out to Crayfield instantly. The 10:10 from Washington has been wrecked outside the station. Hurry, and telephone all the news. And say, try to get a list of the dead."

"My God!" said Broad, and sank down into his seat. He buried his face in his hands and his shoulders shook convulsively. Somebody explained the situation in a few words, and Dunning's face took on an expression of intense sympathy. He placed one arm about Broad's shoulders and drew him to his feet.

"Too bad, old man," he said. "But I guess you'll be crazy now unless you get to Crayfield as soon as possible, so perhaps it would be the kindest thing to let you cover the assignment. You had better take a taxi from the office and you ought to be there in three quarters of an hour."

"Yes, I'll go," cried Broad, pulling himself together. "I'll go at once and telephone you all particulars. You'll have a good story, no matter—what happens."

As he was nearing the door, Dunning called after him:

"Don't forget to telephone a list—a full list of casualties," he said. "That's the main part, I think. There'll be many half-crazy people in town tonight until they know. The 'Planet' says that fourteen were killed. But it may be exaggerated." And he went back to his seat, while Broad disappeared through the doorway.

It was Dunning's custom to throw the papers upon the floor, when he had glanced over them, but on this occasion he folded the "Planet" carefully and laid it away in his desk. This act seemed strangely significant to all of us.

"Do you think her name is in the 'Planet's' list?" asked Kemp, the newest reporter. Good Lord! If it were—would he have let Broad go there on an assignment?"

We did not like to think about the subject.

Three-quarters of an hour elapsed. Dunning sat stiffly at his desk, writing indefatigably, glancing over filmsies and casting copy aside. His face was blanched; the situation seemed to have affected him as much as any of us. The telephone rang. Dunning took up the receiver and held it to his ear for a moment. Then he called to me.

"It's Broad," he said. "He's calling and says he has a good story."

I took up the receiver and at the first sound I knew that his fiancee was safe.

"How is she?" I called. "Fine," answered Broad's voice. I thought there was the suspicion of a sob in it. "Are you ready? The 'Planet' story was incorrect. Now, then." I began taking down the story, while Dunning looked over my shoulder.

"The 10:10 train from Washington to New York was ditched on the far side of Crayfield at 10:02," I wrote. "A broken rail is believed to have been the cause of the accident. The engine and the first three cars plunged down an embankment; the remaining cars left the rails, but did not overturn. The passengers all escaped except one unidentified man who—"

Suddenly Dunning pitched over and fell to the ground. He had fainted. Kemp ran to raise him, and, temporarily diverted from the telephone by the occurrence, I found myself glancing at the copy of the "Planet" in Dunning's half-opened drawer of his desk. On the page facing me I read, among the list of the dead:

"Mrs. George Dunning of Washington."

Confession.

A diplomat at a dinner in Washington said to the season's belle, "You ravish all hearts. You make a fresh conquest every week."

"True," she replied, then added with a sigh—"and I'd give all my slaves for one master."

Revenge.

"Mr. Shepherd, your daughter has promised to marry me."

"Humph; she said she'd get even with me when I refused to get her a Pekingese pup."

Financial Diagnosis.

"Did the doctor know what you had?"

"He seemed to have a pretty accurate idea. He asked for $10 and I had $11."—Boston Transcript.

HORSES ABLE TO TELL TIME

Steeds Hired by the Hour Good Judges of Distance, According to This Stable Manager.

A rider needs a strong hand and a firm seat to ride the hired horses of a certain suburban riding academy when he attempts to go beyond an hour's distance from the stable, according to the New York Sun. The rates are $5 for two hours, and the horses have become so accustomed to going one hour out and one back that when the first hour is reached and the rider does not turn back toward the stable his horse insists upon doing it for him.

Beyond this first hour, if the rider still wishes mistakenly or extravagantly to ride still farther away from the stable, he will have to fight his horse every twenty-five or thirty yards as the horse attempts to turn back, and there will be no further joy in the ride. If he complains to the manager of the stable, the manager will be politely regretful if the rider is a stranger, or he will tell him the honest truth if the rider is an old acquaintance.

"I get so many inexperienced riders," the managers will tell you, "and they have no sense of direction and keep no track of the time, and if it were not for the good sense of the horses the riders would either lose themselves in the countryside or would perhaps realize at some point that their limit was nearly up and then would come thundering in with winded and steaming horses.

"These horses manage the ride themselves and the riders have very little to do with it," said the stable manager, "and in that way they protect the riders, they protect themselves and they protect me."

Elephants Raid Railway Station.

We are used to stories of how an elephant occasionally upsets a circus but it is rare we hear of an orgy of destruction like that which occurred in the Malay peninsula. A herd of wild elephants attacked a railway station, pulling down the station-master's kitchen and bathroom. They did the same to the clerk's quarters and then tackled the station while the office force looked on from trees. One elephant took off an automatic weighing machine as a souvenir of the raid, but finding it heavy, threw it down on the track. One of the elephants trumpeted the recall and they all went back into the jungle except one who fell in a well and had to be cut out by human aid, but was not detained. By the time help arrived after a general telegraphic alarm the huge beasts had entirely disappeared.—Scientific American.
